REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Claims 1-6 recite a semiconductor memory device comprising a bit line equalization circuit and a sense amplifier I/O line equalization circuit, wherein the bit line and the sense amplifier I/O line are equally precharged with voltages that are independently supplied through different supply lines by the bit line equalization circuit and the sense amplifier I/O line equalization circuit that are operated by an inverse signal of the row matrix signal or wherein both ends of the bit line and the sense amplifier I/O line are precharged with the same voltage level by means of voltages that are independently supplied through different supply lines.

The prior art does not teach or suggest the memory device having all the elements and means as recited in claims 1-6. Therefore, the application is in condition for allowance.
